

THIRTY DEAD IN TORNADO'S PATH

Fearful Storm Ploughed Through Town Of Marquette, Kansas, Last Evening.

OVER HUNDRED OF THE INJURED

Were Recovered From The Wreckage Under Which They Were Buried--Homes And Business Blocks Crushed Like Egg-Shells.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-MAR.]
Kansas City, May 9.—A tornado swept the town of Marquette, Kas., last night. Between twenty and twenty-five persons are reported dead. The residence section was the only part affected and this was almost entirely wrecked.

Twenty-One Killed
Kansas City, 10 a. m.—Later reports say that twenty-one were killed and forty injured. The Methodist and Swedish Lutheran churches and the opera-house block were wrecked and a dozen residences destroyed. Physicians were sent from Salina and other towns.

Path of the Storm
Kansas City, 10:30 a. m.—The tornado struck the southern end of the town about midnight and cut a path a hundred yards wide through its entire length. It also did much damage to farming country to the northward. Many victims were killed outright in their homes and others were seriously injured by being buried beneath the wreckage. When the storm abated citizens went about with lanterns removing the dead and injured from the debris.

Death List Increases
Kansas City, 11:00 a. m.—The list of the dead is now placed at 25. Over a hundred are injured. All the houses on Lincoln street were demolished, also twenty-four others in town and five in the country. In one family the father, mother and three children were killed.

Wires Are All Down
Kansas City, 11:40 a. m.—Marquette is a town of five hundred inhabitants on the Missouri Pacific railroad and in McPherson county. The telephone wires are down and communication with other nearby points is broken. A severe storm at Burton, Harvey county, yesterday killed many horses and cows and did much damage to other property.

Names of the Dead
Kansas City, 1:15 p. m.—The dead are: Gus Anderson, Tillie Ellison, Mrs. A. Vanderson, Mrs. Elmer Hultgren, Blanche Switzer, Lena Switzer, Nina Switzer, Anna Coulson, M. H. Nelson, wife and children, A. S. Jorgren, St. Olaf Hansen and wife, Gottfred Nelson, wife and child, Elmer Nelson, Mrs. Postier and child, Chas. Roberts, and an unidentified man.

Store Becomes a Morgue
Kansas City, 1:30 p. m.—Reports from the surrounding country show that the destruction of life and property is widespread. The list of dead and injured is constantly growing. The Olson furniture store has been turned into a morgue, in which there were twenty-four bodies by ten o'clock this morning. The business of the town is suspended. Citizens began caring for the injured soon after day-break. The tornado formed three miles south of Marquette but did not spend its force until it had passed several miles north. With two exceptions every house in the course of the tornado was destroyed.

SHAEFFER TIRES OF LEADERSHIP

Head of Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers Decides to Retire.

Detroit, Mich., May 9.—After standing at the head of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers for eight years, President T. J. Shaffer of the association, which is at present in annual convention here, will this year yield his place to a successor. This announcement was made to the convention by President Shaffer when he finished reading his annual report.

The contest for the presidency of the association is said to have slumbered down to a race between M. F. Tighe of Pittsburgh, the assistant secretary of the association, and P. F. McArdle of Muncie, Ind., vice president of the fourth district. Walter Larkin of Wheeling, vice president of the second district, has also been mentioned.

Applause for Shaffer.
The conclusion of President Shaffer's report was marked by a splendid burst of applause, showing that he had a strong following among the delegates, but he announced that he would under no circumstances accept a re-election.

Another development was the leaking out from convention circles of the report that the younger element

NORCROSS LED ATTACK ON TELEPHONE MEASURE

And Championed Amendment To Taxation Committee And Ad-Valorem Street Railway Bill.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., May 9.—Two notable victories were won by Assemblyman Norcross today. He led the debate resulting in the killing of the "Physical Connection" telephone bill, which has been pushed in the interests of Crawford, Harper, a Dane county henchman of the governor, and in favor of which the factional lash was attempted to be wielded. Captain Norcross also fought for amending the taxation committee and ad valorem street railway bill so as to give to localities 85 instead of 80 per cent of the tax. In this fight he was with Speaker Leach, making a hit by declaring that if the Speaker would not be "wrong so generally" Norcross would like to fight with him.

The telephone "physical connection" bill, which has been advocated by independent companies and vigorously opposed by the so-called Bell trust, was defeated in the assembly by a tie vote, the assembly refusing to pass the bill 35 to 35. The action was followed by a long debate, led for the bill by its author, Assemblyman Ekern, and against it by Assemblyman Norcross.

Trying to put each other in the whole.

The claim filed by the First National bank amounts to $1,549,133.63, which represents only the amount of the defalcation, but does not include loans made by Bigelow from the bank, amounting to $99,775, for which the bank has security. # JAPS READY FOR ANY EMERGENCY

British Dispatches Say Big Reserve Fleet Awaits Possible Disaster.

ROOSEVELT HAS SENT MESSAGE

To King Edward Regarding Possibilities Of Ending Hostilities, According To Manchester, England, Journal.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-MAR.]
Manchester, Eng., May 9.—The Dispatch says that Sir Mortimer Durand, British ambassador to Washington, is the bearer of an autograph letter to the King from President Roosevelt, on the subject of the war in the far east and the possibilities of bringing about a cessation of hostilities. The Dispatch quotes prominent naval officers as authority for the statement that Japan has organized a reserve fleet of four or five battle-ships, and twenty fast cruisers which will be strong enough to protect communications between Japan and Manchuria in case Togo is defeated.

French on Lookout Now
Paris, May 9.—Admiral De Jonquieres, French commander in Indo-China, has finally headed proposals and organized a patrol service through which full information regarding the movements of the Russian vessels along the French coast in those waters may be secured. It is announced that admiral Rojestvensky has left the coast waters.

Sighted Fleet Friday
Hong Kong, May 9.—The German steamer "Neumuhlen," which has just arrived here, reports that it sighted forty-five vessels in the vicinity of Kanranh bay on Friday, and that twenty of these were warships.

Russian Fleets Now Joined
St. Petersburg, May 9.—According to dispatches to the admiralty brought to Saigon by the hospital ship Kostroma, the junction of the fleets under Rojestvensky and Nebogatoff is by this time an accomplished fact. In view of the long voyage of Nebogatoff's division it is believed his ships will spend some time in the China sea near the coast in order to complete preparations before setting out on the last and crucial stage of the voyage.

France Is Warned.
London, May 9.—Verbal communications (quite recently passed between the British and French foreign offices concerning the alleged toleration by France of breaches of neutrality on the part of Russian war ships in the far East. This is practically admitted at the foreign office, but the British officials decline to enter into details on the subject. From another source it is learned that Foreign Secretary Lansdowne communicated with the French ambassador in London and to the French foreign office through the British ambassador at Paris.

View Entertained in Official Quarters
The view entertained in official quarters here is that the criticisms are chiefly due to the belief that the rigorous neutrality regulations have universal application, whereas the French regulations on the subject are far more liberal, and France insists that she has the right to follow her own rules.

Say Jap Vessel Is Lost.
London, May 9.—The correspondent in Paris of the Times telegraphs: "It is rumored in Russian circles here that the Japanese flagship Mikasa was lost in the straits of Korea a week ago."

Parish within a few days.
Menace to Japan.
The London newspapers do not conceal their opinion that the facilities Rojestvensky has obtained in French waters constitute a serious menace to Japan's ability to retain command of the sea. Although it is not apprehended that Japan will force the situation in a manner calculated to draw other powers into the struggle, since such developments would suit Russia's plans, strong appeals will be made to the French government to avoid the possibility of such complications.

The correspondent at Singapore of the Daily Mail telegraphs: "A private letter from influential friends at Tokyo states that Vice Admiral Togo's fleet is concentrating in the Korean channel and that a portion of the Japanese navy is watching Vladivostok."

Rojestvensky Is Kept Moving.
Paris, May 9.—An official dispatch was received here saying the Russian squadron had left Konghai bay. This follows the efforts of the French authorities to keep the squadron moving. Its destination is not given.

The critical tone of the British press concerning France's alleged breaches of neutrality in Indo-China has brought out an emphatic statement from the foreign office that the accusations are unfounded. A semi-official note says:

"Contrary to the allegation contained in a dispatch from Hongkong to a foreign agency, not only has the French government not disregarded the rules of neutrality, but after sending its civil and military agents very precise instructions for the enforcement of those rules the government has unremittently seen to their extension."

FIGHT AGAINST RATE BILL NOT ABANDONED

Senator North Last Evening Introduced Substitute, Decreasing Powers Of Proposed Commission.

(Special Correspondence.)
Madison, Wis., May 9.—The stalwarts of the Wisconsin senate have by no means given up their fight against the La Follette plan to enact a law establishing a powerful railroad rate commission. This was shown last night by the introduction by Senator W. C. North, a democrat who has always lined up with the opponents of the administration, of a substitute for the measure reported unanimously by the committee on railroads after three months of deliberation. The main differences of the substitute from the committee bill are the provisions that the decisions of the commission shall be applied and go into effect only if the railroads make no protest and file no appeal. The committee bill provides that the decisions of the commission shall be applied 20 days after the announcement thereof. According to the substitute the railroads may file an appeal from the decisions of the commission and such appeal shall act as a stay of proceedings. If the committee bill be passed the roads will have to get out an injunction to bring about a stay of proceedings. Another important difference is that the substitute provides that the members of the commission shall be elected rather than appointed. These two matters were discussed long by the committee and decided in favor of an appointive commission and the application of the decisions without an appeal acting as a stay of proceedings. It is said to be possible that the elective feature will be incorporated into the bill as it will be finally passed. This means that Governor La Follette will not go to the United States senate, but will remain in Wisconsin and become a candidate for a place on the commission. The fight on the rate commission bill will be expedited as much as possible, for there appears a unanimity of desire on the part of the legislators to thrust the matter out and hasten the close of the session.

TO MAKE MUCK LANDS PRODUCE

PLAN TO HAVE THEM PAY OUT LINED IN BULLETIN.

AREAS MUST BE DRAINED

Many Marshes Near Here Could Be Turned Into Valuable Farm Lands.

"Muck lands and how to make them pay" is the title of a bulletin recently published by the Indiana Agricultural experiment station. Owing to the fact that so much has been said regarding the marshes in the vicinity of Janesville it may be of interest to many farmers and is published below.

Every country in the world contains considerable areas of swamp land, much of which is covered with a formation of muck or peat. The size of these formations varies from a fraction of an acre to tracts containing several thousand acres. In many states of the Union, such as Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa and Florida, these formations are so large and numerous that their aggregate areas amount to from 1,000 to 5,000 square miles in each state. So general is the distribution of these lands that nearly one-half of the American experiment stations have devoted attention to them.

They are known under various local names, such as swamp, muck, peat, marsh, tamarack, hackmatack, muskog, alkali and bogus. The last two names are applied to those that are unproductive. The term alkali is not properly applied to such lands and the unproductive-ness is not due to alkali in the usual sense of that term. These soils have been formed from water plants of various sorts, which have been partially preserved by the water covering them. Genuine peat is formed by a moss which dies below while continuing its growth above.

The most of these lands fall into two general classes.—First, beds of comparatively pure peat or muck surrounded by and resting on hard or clay formations, sometimes with sand or gravel layers. Second, areas of black humus alternating with low ridges of sandy soil and mixed to a greater or less extent with sand.

These lands are not well suited for the production of small grains, but when properly handled become of the highest value for the production of corn, potatoes, pasture grasses, buckwheat, and in Europe they are also used for the production of sugar beets. The first thing to be done is to drain them. The drainage should be as deep as possible, since the soils compact a good deal when the water is removed. The permanent water level ought to be reduced below 42 inches from the surface for the best results. Especial attention should be given to cutting off the water which may flow from surrounding lands and to springs near the margin of the formation. By doing this the water level may often be reduced without using much tile in the muck itself, the lower brown layers of which are very apt to close up the joint and pores of the tile. A ditch around the marsh and one open ditch through it is often all that is necessary.

After these lands are drained they will generally produce two or more very good corn crops, but after a time the corn becomes chaffy, and on some of the lands not even stalks will grow. Coarse manure can be used to increase the yields, but the characteristic and valuable ingredient of the manure, the nitrogen, is not needed, and the manure can be used to much better advantage on higher lands.

Field tests and chemical examinations of these soils agree in pointing out that the element always lacking in these soils is potash. Where the land will produce no sound corn, 200 lbs. per acre of muriate of potash should be used. Where a moderate crop of corn can be raised, 100 lbs. per acre will be enough. On the muck lands that contain considerable sand it often pays to use some phosphoric acid in addition to the above amounts of potash. This can be obtained by using 100 lbs. of acid phosphate or of steamed bone per acre.

When it is impossible to reduce the water level to more than two feet below the surface, the use of 250 lbs. of muriate of potash per acre has resulted in profitable corn crops.

BOOK CIRCULATION IS DROPPING OFF

Number of Volumes Drawn From Public Library Decreases Steadily.

Summer weather and spring activities, such as excursions into the country, garden work, house cleaning, baseball games, and numerous attractions for Janesville people, both at home and outside the city, have had their effect on the circulation of books from the public library. There has been a great dropping off in the number of books drawn during April from the number drawn during March. This is almost equally true of both the main library and children's room and of all classes of books. The total circulation decreased 1262 volumes, the number of books taken from the main library lowering 679 and the number obtained from the children's room going down 583. The daily average also decreased to a great extent, 34 less being taken per day during April than during the preceding month. The report for April is appended:

THIS WEEK'S BILL AT WEST SIDE THEATRE

Big Audience Witnessed First Night's Entertainment—Good Comedian Team.

With the house well filled with people the new bill for the week at the West Side theatre was put on last evening. The program contains a number of acts of merit. Warren & Howard, a comedy sketch team, took as well as any and many of their jokes and songs were new to Janesville theatre-goers. The Musical Smiths rendered a number of eccentric pieces and pleased their hearers. George Hatch's new songs, entitled "A Little Boy Called Taps" and "Day by Day," are both beautifully illustrated and the airs are adapted well to the words. The other numbers, some of which seemed to delight the audience, were Carrolton & Hodges, creole singers and dancers; Sawtelle & Sears, sister duo; Marie Albia, entertainer, and the projectoscope.

POOR SPIRIT SHOWN TOWARDS THE COACH

On the Part of Members of Varsity Track Team—Not a Hope of Winning Saturday.

(Special Correspondence.) Madison, Wis., May 9.—Saturday afternoon the universities of Wisconsin and Chicago met at Camp Randall in a dual track and field athletic contest, and the Badgers have not even a forlorn hope of winning. They can hardly expect, in fact, to make a respectable showing. Wisconsin has lost the captain of the track team, Emil Breikreutz, the holder of the intercollegiate record in the half-mile, who goes to teach and coach at Ripon college, although the report that he is to turn professional is denied. It is said that he will get no pay for coaching, the only pay being for teaching mathematics. Walker, who in the absence of the captain, will doubtless be elected captain, was beaten in the home tryout dash last Saturday in the 100-yard dash and is said to be in poor shape to run against the fast sprinters of the Chicago team. The situation is particularly discouraging to Coach James Temple, who has worked conscientiously to bring out a creditable team. He has been given poor encouragement, however, having a depressing lack of material and being confronted with indifference on the part of members of the team, which in the case of Captain Breikreutz, has amounted to open hostility.

Labor Notes

At a meeting of union printers lately in Kansas City, the action of the employing printers of the southwest in declaring against the proposed eight-hour workday was discussed by several speakers. Resolutions were adopted declaring for the eight-hour day and expressing a determination to fight for its institution.

The United States supreme court has handed down a decision declaring a New York State law unconstitutional, which limited the working hours in baking shops to 10 hours per day.

The thirteenth convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron Steel and Tin Workers convened in Detroit, May 2.

The Santa Fe machinists were on strike one year May 2.

The convention of the hotel and restaurant employees' international alliance and bartenders' international league of America, was held in Kansas City beginning May 8.

Packing box makers in New York are gaining rapidly in membership.

Russian working men recently received pay for time when they were on strike, probably the first time that such a thing happened in history.

The decrease in the size of American families is greatly due to so many married women being employed, a money-earning occupations that they cannot spare the time to look after children. One-third of the married women of the United States are engaged in some gainful occupation.

President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers, has made official announcement that the strike in the Meyersdale, Pa., bituminous district has been lost and that the miners would return to work on terms dictated by the operators. He said that none of the demands for which the miners have been contending for months has been conceded by the operators, and the conclusion from his statement is that the miners have made an unconditional surrender.

A letter has been received at the department of justice from William G. Whipple, United States attorney for the Eastern District of Arkansas saying that several convictions have been secured in the United States court there of persons charged with peonage.

The strike of the union plumbers of Hudson county, N. J., for an increase in their wage rate from $2 to $4.50 a day is being continued, despite the fact that the United Building Trades Council of Hudson county practically repudiated the actions of the plumbers, and ordered them to submit their grievances to the general arbitration board of the Building Trades Employers' Association and Building Trades Council.

A BUSY SEASON FOR STUDENTS

MANY EVENTS IN PREPARATION AT HIGH SCHOOL.

GRADUATION IS APPROACHING

Rusk Lyceum Banquet, Dual Track Meet, Waukesha Debate and Declamatory Contest.

The season is a busy one at the high school. It is a time of preparation for various events. The members of the senior class have planned their commencement exercises and are hard at work on them. The athletes are training for the track meet of Saturday, the members of the Rusk Lyceum are arranging their annual banquet, the debaters of the school are completing the communal of their discussions and arguments for the Waukesha contest, and the two declaimers who will represent the school in the district competition are drilling on their selections.

Rusk Lyceum Orchestra June 2 will undoubtedly be the date of the annual Rusk Lyceum banquet. The committee on arrangements are now making their plans and will soon have decided upon a program of the feast. A few of the members of the society have organized an orchestra and will furnish music at the event. Those who will compose this musical company are Lynn Cory, cornet; Jerome Davis and William Penichen, violins; Lester Stranz, clarinet; Harry Hyzer, traps and drums; and Frank "helps, piano. This is the first time the Lyceum has had a musical organization of any kind, though attempts to form quartets have been made in the past.

The Waukesha Debate Harvey Bailey, the leader of the Janesville debating team, who has been ill for the past three weeks and for whom a postponement of the Waukesha debate was secured, will probably not make his appearance against that school Friday evening, Jerome Davis, chosen alternate at the tryout last winter, is prepared to take Mr. Bailey's position and will handle his portion of the discussion with credit to himself and to the school. Mr. Bailey's illness is very unfortunate, as he has taken a leading part in the preparation and much of the success of the team, if victory is Janesville's, will be the result of his labors. The debate is this Friday evening at Waukesha and a number from here will attend. The speaking order of the Janesville trio is, Drville Swift, Paul Porter, Jerome Davis. They will deliver their addresses before the school some time this week in order to accustom them more thoroughly to appearing before an assemblage and acquaint them as to the nature of the contest.

Judges Are Chosen The exact wording of the question is, "Is the closed shop policy advocated by unions justifiable?" This explanation is given. The closed shop policy is that the employer agrees to employ only union men as workers in that grade or those trades under the jurisdiction of that union. The question for debate was selected by the debaters of the Waukesha school last November and was submitted to the Janesville team, who chose the negative side of the question. The Waukesha debaters are Chester Griswold, Dexter Witte and Robert Montgomery. Eminent gentlemen have been engaged to act as judges, Prof. Carl Eise of the chair of American History of the University of Wisconsin, Judge Paul Carpenter of Milwaukee, and Principal C. E. McLeneghan of Milwaukee, who is president of the State Teachers' association. The program of the evening will be opened and closed by songs by the Waukesha high school girls' quartet.

Those who will graduate this year are now busy not only with the work of completing their courses of study but also with the labor of preparing their various commencement exercises. Each one is required to take some part in the graduation program. Many will take roles in the play and some, who have but minor parts, will be compelled to give other forms of exercise as the cast is a large one. There will be a number of new features introduced this year. Though the numbers are not announced generally until a few days before commencement it is rumored that there will be vocal solos and that some of the class parts will be handled in a novel manner. Miss Cora Viove Shuler has completed the composition of the class song and practice on this will soon be commenced regularly.

Track Meet and Contest The first track meet of the season in which the local athletes participate will be held at Evansville Saturday. It will be a dual contest between the Janesville and Evansville schools and some good time should be made in the track events and good records in the field exercises by both teams.

The district declamatory contest comes Friday, the nineteenth, and is at Whitewater. The two young ladies who spoke at Beloit will again represent the school and prospects of more honors for Janesville are good.

NOT IN THE DENTAL COMBINE.

These are trust busting times.
There exists an IRON-CLAD agreement among the Dentists of Janesville whereby, over their written signatures and upon their word of honor, they AGREE TO OBTAIN CERTAIN PRICES FOR THEIR WORK.

What is this but a "TRUST"?
There's a dentist in Janesville who stands out from this combine.

Let us see how this works:
The combine agree to charge $10 for Gold Crowns.
Dr. Richards, being free to make his own prices, is making these gold crowns, guaranteed to be equal in every respect, for just $5 each.

He says he had rather work for a LARGE number of patients at a MODERATE profit, than to work for only an occasional man and have to charge him so much that EVEN HE won't come again.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, May 9, 1866.—The "Whitewater Register" announces the discovery of petroleum in the vicinity of that village and the formation of a company with a capital of $25,000 to bore for it.

Where He Got It.—Our foreman made his appearance in the shop this afternoon with a very tasty article in the way of a hat, on his head, which he informed us came from the clothing he wore in Echlin & Foot. They have a choice lot of goods of this kind on hand, besides any quantity of clothes and gentlemen's wearing apparel.

Arrival Home of the 12th Battery Boys.—Some eight or ten of the 12th Battery boys arrived home on the noon train today. We have had the pleasure of meeting none of them except Mr. Wheeler Bowen. The other members of the battery are on their way home, having been mustered out of the service.

C. & N. W. Railway.—We are pleased to learn that Mr. Head, the freight agent at this place, that the business of the road feels the impulse of spring, and is much heavier than it was a month ago. It is to be regretted that the company did not see fit to put their fare down to half price on the occasion of the President's funeral.

al in Chicago, as it would have materially helped the receipts and given more general satisfaction, inasmuch as the other roads did it.

Soldiers' Home.—Since the war is so nearly closed, the attention of the people is naturally turned toward the best means of securing a home for the sick and disabled soldiers belonging to Wisconsin. The Sanitary Commission has done a great and blessed work, but ere long it will have, it is hoped, an opportunity to rest from its labors when this new and Christian enterprise will rise to increased importance. Let us remember the fair in Milwaukee in behalf of this noble enterprise.

The News.
General Wilson has headed off the arch traitor Jeff, and rendered escape very shadowy. That miscreant will find "Jordan a hard road to travel." It is said that the dispatch announcing the reward offered for "Jeff Davis, late of Virginia," was sent over the wires into the very heart of the Southern States. Am also the news of the success of our cavalry was received at Washington by the same channel.

LAND GRABBING FRAUDS.

The May number of Everybody's Magazine contains an expose on land steals under the title, "The West Coast Land Grabbers," which is a revelation. It is a well known fact that the public domain has long been subject to all sorts of knavery, and that many of the laws have been so loosely drawn as to encourage wholesale theft, but the magnitude of these stealings has not been appreciated. The St. Paul Pioneer Press in commenting on the subject, says:

"There is Henry Miller, for example, who came to this country, a poor German boy, in 1850. He has gathered in township after township, until now, as shown by testimony in a United States court, his holdings aggregate 22,717 1/2 square miles, or 14,539,200 acres. What those figures mean can be better understood by reflecting that they cover an area three times as large as New Jersey—as large as the combined areas of New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Delaware—an area greater than all Greece! Miller appears to have been the most successful of all those who have used the machinery provided by the land laws for robbing the nation and barring out the actual settlers for whose benefit, in theory, those laws were enacted.

"But there is a long list of others who have each secured a so-called 'legal' title to estates beside which the principalities, dukedoms, baronies, etc., of the Old World shrink to insignificance. John A. Benson has tied up about five million acres, mostly by means of fraudulent surveys and the homestead law; in manipulating corrupt officials at Washington. He is said to have been indicted eighty-six times, but so far has escaped conviction, through the aid of conscienceless lawyers and sympathetic juries. Frederick A. Hyde has also manipulated the homestead law so as to secure the ownership of a large number of townships. A specimen of his methods in 'homesteading' is found in the use of a wagon, located on the corners of four sections, each quarter of which wagon represented the 'house' of a 'settler' who, for a price, slept there and made the necessary oaths of 'settlement and improvement' to secure a patent for the land; which was forthwith made over to his employer. A man named Jack has an estate which includes nearly half of Monterey county, Cal. Jesse D. Carr has so located his various great holdings as to include an immense area of land the title to which 'rot' rests in the United States. And around the whole he has stretched a barbed wire fence more than 100 miles long.

"These are only a few among hundreds of similar instances. To call the roll of all those who have by fraud obtained possession of 'kingdoms' in California, Oregon, Nevada, Washington and other states would be to name a large proportion of the men who have made themselves prominent in affairs, including, unfortunately, a great number of public officials, United States senators, representatives, district attorneys, and land office clerks. Similar schemes have been worked in Minnesota, the Dakotas and other states not referred to in the magazine article.

"The most unfortunate feature of the case, next to the widespread demoralization of the public conscience revealed, seems to be that the greater part of these fraudulent acquisitions of lands have been legalized either by the action of the statute of limitations or by the complicity of government officials, whose acts in betrayal of trust have validated otherwise worthless conveyances. No doubt the energetic work of the department of justice will recover some of the stolen lands for the nation; and if anything more was needed to spur congress to action in accordance with President Roosevelt's recommendation for a repeal of the perilsous land laws, to prevent the further perpetration of such frauds, it seems to have been afforded by the revelations now before the nation.

"But national and state legislation may yet be invoked to destroy the fraudulently obtained land-holdings, despite their present legalization. The use of the taxing power can make their retention unprofitable. It is quite within the power of legislatures to limit the amount of land that any individual may hold. And the spectacle of these huge holdings in the hands of sharks, barring from the acquisition of homes millions of American freemen, may yet spur the people to demand that the legislative power be made effective."

Mr. Frank Blodgett's address before the senate committee will have some influence, unless the members are so blinded by prejudice that reality and common sense are ignored. Mr. Blodgett spoke for the milling interests of the state, and his arguments apply, to greater or less extent, to many other industries. The interests of the state are of more vital importance than individual ambition.

The Bigelow embezzlement in Milwaukee promises to be even more of a crime than was at first thought. Mr. Bigelow certainly succeeded in using other people's money in a right royal way.

Almost daily reports from the seat of war in the east show that the Japanese are forcing the fighting despite the fact General Linovitch is said to be such a born leader of men.

White helmets might do for a street cleaning brigade but not for the Janesville police force. But the council ordered them and they should see their orders are fulfilled.

Roosevelt has killed some bears, has had a royal time and now leaves the west for the civilized east with the "bears" of Chicago growling at his approach.

Now that Mr. Bowen has arrived home from Venezuela the public may perhaps hear something interesting regarding Mr. Loomis form short range.

This question of spring ploughing seems about over and the next problem is having enough sunshine to keep the corn growing in a healthy condition.

The Lancaster Teller objects to a costly state capital because Grant county would have to pay its share of the building.

Green Bay has cleaned out all its known stink pots and now is securing a fresh supply of notoriety by going for its prosecuting attorney.

Janesville is in a million dollar sugar beet and tobacco region all right and the rest of the world is learning this fact.

Teamsters strikes in Chicago have become an everyday occurrence and the city would feel badly if they stopped from any cause or other.

Beloit is planning for a Fourth of July celebration. Why does not Janesville wake up and do something?

Already the Free Press has begun worrying who is to be the next governor.

That long drawn out agony, the state legislature, is soon to adjourn sine die.

When is the Russian fleet going to find time to fight that great sea fight?

A rousing good Fourth of July celebration would wake Janesville up.

April showers have failed to materialize May flowers.

Summer is coming but the question is just when it will arrive.

Chicago strikers still have no real respect for the law.

The "Maine" Way.
We advised people generally, last November, to go to court rather than pay lightning bills which were unreasonable. Mr. C. W. Rollins, publisher of the "Enterprise" of Old Town, Maine, not only acted on the hint, but urged his readers to rebellion also. The company threatened Mr. Rollins with discontinuance of the service, whereupon he appealed for an injunction. The court decided that the company not only could not collect the back bills in dispute, but owed Mr. Rollins enough through overcharge, not only to pay those bills, but to apply something on the April bill. The company also paid the costs. Other people in Bangor and Old Town will naturally now turn in to secure their rights under the wing of this decision; the company's contention that it was the only judge of reasonableness having been upset. Mr. Rollins enough through overcompany owns the electric railway and the waterworks, and is controlled by the General Electric Company, which is supposed to be Standard Oil; and that the Bangor Gas Company is owned by the American Gas Company; that the electric company charges a minimum price of 80 cents per month for electric light, which was not done when a previous company owned the plant. Mr. Rollins has had the light for ten years or more, and has protested every time he had to pay 80 cents for one, two, three, or four thousand watt-hours, when the rate is 15 cents per thousand. If he went to a summer cottage for a month, and so did not burn the light, the bill of 80 cents must be paid. It is called a maintenance charge. The charter does not provide for any such charge, and the company was run for eight years without it. "Why," asks the victim, "has not the ice man the same right to make a maintenance charge of so much per month during the winter, and the coal man during the summer?" We have not been to Bangor, but the story sounds familiar, all except Mr. Rollins' energetic stand—Collier's, May 13.

La Crosse Leader-Press: It is hoped no one will heave a brick at Mr. Roosevelt when he drives through the streets of Chicago.

Sheboygan Journal: Madison freshmen have begun wearing derby hats. Most of them also have cut their eye teeth.

Madison Democrat: In this latest of Chicago strikes it is the old story of cowardly public officials coddling the lawless and thus prolonging the trouble.

El Paso Herald: Up in Missouri

they are finding the remains of 90 foot snakes, and Kansas is turning the cold, watery, prohibition eye on her next neighbor.

Rockford Register-Gazette: An Iowa club has a ball player named Manypenny. If he is a real ball player it is a cinch that he hasn't a cent.

Milwaukee Free Press: White is the true graduation color and only the girl of bizarre tastes introduces a color note in her frock.

Oshkosh Northwestern: In some parts of the country trading stamps are becoming so scarce they have taken to collecting them for their stamp albums.

Chicago Inter Ocean: The Wisconsin anti-tipping law unfortunately does not as yet deal adequately with the summer lake visitor who rocks and threatens to tip the boat just to scare the girls.

Chicago News: It takes more than the law to brace up the man who has resolved not to tip the waiter. One look of scorn from the colored boy doubtless will continue to produce results even in Wisconsin.

Evansville Review: The farmers in and around Stoughton have formed a trust, having for its object the raising of all commodities which they have for sale, and to get more uniform and adjustable prices for the same.

Mineral Point Tribune: After all, it is honesty that makes good banking and not good banking laws. No law can ever be made so strong that the element of personal honesty can be eliminated from behind the bank counter.

Green Bay Gazette: Henry G. Goll solemnly avers that he knowingly did nothing wrong in the First National bank of Milwaukee but it was noticed that he kept out of the hands of the officers as long as possible.

Kansas City Journal: A Kansas man has made a bet that he could invent a question to which fifty people would all give the same answer. The experiment has been tried and it works like a charm. The question is this: "Have you heard that Smith has committed suicide?" Answer: "What Smith?"

Milwaukee Sentinel: There is talk of introducing a resolution in the legislature the coming week asking the governor to elect whether he will "fish or cut bait"—continue to be governor or go to the United States senate. Then the governor will speak, if he happens to feel like speaking.

Exchange: Somebody has gone snooping around and discovered that one of the men who loudly protested against the acceptance of Mr. Rockefeller's money, on the ground that it was tainted, owns a building which is used partly for saloon purposes. How spiteful some people are.

Chicago Record Herald: A good many people are inclined to congratulate the citizens of Connecticut upon the fact that Samuel Fessenden, who became famous by declaring that "God Almighty hates a quitter," has retired from the senatorial race in that state. Mr. Fessenden is not, however, the first epigrammatist who has found it inconvenient to live up to his epigrams.

Ban Claire Leader: Fred Vogel, Jr., the new president of "the late Mr. Bigelow's bank" begins his rule with some good advice to the employees. "It is enough, that your conduct while in the bank should be beyond reproach, but your conduct while out of the bank must also be irreproachable." To emphasize his remarks all salaries were cut from 10 to 15 per cent.

Superior Telegram: A close observer used to maintain that the manner in which a person punctuated his writing was a sure indication of his moral character, and his conscientiousness in attention to small details. Judged by this standard how many people are either good, capable or careful.

Racine Journal: There are those that take exceptions to the action of the Pittsburg Y. M. C. A. in refusing to allow actors and other members of the theatrical profession to become members. While the morality of some fellow that avocation for a living may be questioned, there are many, who certainly, with the greatest of justice, claim to possess as many of the cardinal virtues as those who draw the line so close.

Milwaukee Journal: If anybody thinks the two Republican factions are getting together on the rate question, he doesn't read the organs. They're whooping it up to each other at the rate of a column or more a day, each charging the other with bad faith. Today the Half-Breeds use names, calling Senator Wiperman to account because he apparently is not working with the administration men. The common impression is that Wiperman got enough of them in the senatorial fight.

Madison Journal: The "Old gentleman" of the Free Press, who used to drive a Standard Oil wagon, says the editor of the State Journal couldn't be elected hog-warden. This was also true of Socrates of Athens. The only real darling of the people, the citizen of Wisconsin who brings tears to the eyes of the electorate as he walks the pave, is Old Man Bright of the Free Press, whose editorial page bubbles over with love to his fellow man and is soppy with human sympathy.

BATTLESHIPS IN BIG SPEED TEST

Race of North Atlantic Squadron
Won by the Missouri with Margin of Seven Miles

New York, May 9.—In an eight-hour race, under the most favorable conditions, the battleship Alabama was badly beaten by the North Atlantic squadron, including the old Iowa and Massachusetts. As a result the Alabama reached the navy yard to be immediately dry docked to learn what is wrong with her propellers.

The race occurred Saturday afternoon below the Virginia capes. The battleship Missouri, commanded by Capt. William S. Cowles, won, beating the Maine, the second boat, by seven miles. The Alabama was the last ship to finish.

Her entire engineer force is puzzled to know what is wrong with the twin screws. The engines behaved splendidly, turning the screws at an average of 101 revolutions, a rate which should have given her over sixteen knots an hour instead of the thirteen and three-quarters logged.

Evans Orders Speed Test.

The sea being unusually smooth last Saturday while the squadron was making its way to Hampton Roads from Pensacola, Admiral Evans signaled the squadron that the ships prepare for a speed test. The conditions given by the signals were that the some line up at 10 o'clock to send the fleet away, and that they race for eight hours. The first two hours steam was to be used by natural draught, then by forced draught for four hours, making up with two hours more of natural draught at the close.

The entire battleship squadron, numbering seven of the finest vessels in the American navy, lined up at 9:45. Compass bearings and land-falls showed the squadron to be at that time 200 miles south of the Virginia capes.

Missouri Forges to Front.
The entire fleet got away well together at 10 a. m., except that the Kearsarge had a slight advantage.

At noon the Missouri was nearly two miles ahead, and the Maine began to pick up a little for an hour or so, but could not hold on. The finish was made at 5 o'clock.

The Alabama continued to fall in the rear from the outset. Her engineers found that she had plenty of steam, and Capt. William H. Reed, the commander of the ship, went below to find out if anything was wrong. The engineers reported everything to be working in order, yet the ship was not making her customary speed.

It was a mystery how rapidly she fell behind. After the race was over and the log runs were checked off it was found that the Alabama made fifty knots under natural draft and sixty knots under forced draught, a total of only 110 knots during the six hours. This worked out an average of only thirteen and three-quarters knots an hour, when the vessel should have logged an average of sixteen knots.

WAS IT "SHOVING THE QUEER" ART

THAT STRANGER TRIED TO PRACTICE LAST NIGHT?

ODD CHAIN OF INCIDENTS

Developed Into a Most Peculiar Situation at People's Drugstore—Police Were Called.

One bottle of Peruna, a florid-faced stranger with goatee and mustache of auburn hue, and a supposed counterfeit half-dollar of the coinage of 1854, figured in a little scene at the People's Drug Store shortly before ten o'clock last evening. The unknown man entered the store and asked for a bottle of the patent medicine, proffering in payment two quarters and a fifty-cent piece. George King, the proprietor, picked up the money and after feeling of the half handed it back to the prospective customer with the statement that he did not believe it was good and would not accept it. The stranger was much concerned at this and stated that he was positive that the coin was bona-fide.

To demonstrate that it would ring right, on the owner's suggestion, Mr. King took a piece of the same denomination from his cash-drawer for the purpose of comparison. One or two visitors in the store took halves from their pockets with the same intent. Stating that the test should be made so and so, the stranger deftly placed the suspected coin between the thumb and forefinger of one hand and seemed to strike it from his grasp with the other, just as Mr. King's coin hit the floor with the true, silvery ring.

The stranger then quickly stooped, apparently to recover his own half-dollar, and after rapid groping picked up the one Mr. King had dropped, exclaiming at the same moment that he could not find his piece of money. Neglecting to return to the proprietor of the store, in the interim, the half that he had picked up in lieu of his own, the stranger commenced a careful search for his piece, which he insisted he had not recovered. Others presently joined in the search but no trace of the suspected half simoleon could be found, though the surroundings were apparently such that there was no place where it could have rolled or bounced out of reach of the eye.

When the search proved futile the stranger let it be understood that he would keep the cash-drawer coin as an equivalent for the one he had lost, declaring it to be perfectly good and that Mr. King must eventually find it, inasmuch as it had been lost in his store. This being the program, Mr. King not only announced that he, on his part, would keep the two quarters which had accompanied the larger piece that looked and felt like Platteville lead, but also followed up this declaration by reaching for the bottle of Peruna and putting it back in the case.

Whereat the man whom the on-lookers had come to distrust waxed first indignant and then threatening. He demanded in loud tones to know if Mr. King accused him of passing counterfeit money, accused one of the bystanders of picking up the coin in question, insisted on the return of his two quarters, shouted that he would have the United States authorities take up the matter if it cost him a fortune. "When they do," he exclaimed theatrically, at the same time leveling an accusing finger at Mr. King, "You will be compelled to identify the counterfeit and which you accuse me of passing as such." "It was 1854," responded Mr. King. "It was not 1854," said the stranger.

By this time matters were becoming altogether too tropical and H. S. Gierhart who happened to be one of the onlookers, slipped out unobserved and spoke a word to Officer Morrissey who happened just at that moment to reach the Myers House corner on his beat. A moment later the officer entered the store, and stepped up alongside the unidentified who eyed him with some apparent misgiving but kept on with his expostulations. A few moments later the man was led out to the street by the patrolman and advised to move on. He paused twice in front of the windows of the drug store to draw his lower lip down, from his lower teeth in a glance of malignant hatred at the proprietor, and after thus glowing darkly and leaving Mr. King something to dream about, walked slowly up North Main street and soon disappeared in the darkness.

Left Town This Morning
Later in the evening a complaint came from the night clerk at the Empire hotel that this same man was raising a disturbance there and an officer called and took him to the lock-up where he spent the night. He gave his name there as Chester Rice and stated that he was conducting evangelistic services. His wife and nine looking family of five children were quartered at the Empire hotel. On agreement to leave the city promptly, with his family departed for Madison on the 11:45 train. Those at the hotel believe the man was addicted to the use of drugs. He came here from Beloit yesterday afternoon and engaged lodgings at the Empire without placing his name on the register.

STOCK CO. PLEASED A BIG AUDIENCE

Irving French Organization Presented "A Runaway Wife" at Myers Last Night—Excellent Specialties.

There was a big audience that filled nearly every available seat at the Myers theatre last evening to witness the opening engagement of the Irving French Stock Co., and everyone was well pleased with the entertainment. The melodramatic comedy, "A Runaway Wife," was the offering and it was presented in a convincing manner by a competent cast. Don Macmillan as "Chumley," the top endowed with few thoughts but considerable nobility of character; Carrie Weller as "Beatrice," the runaway wife; and Harry Lane as the Italian tempter, pleased best in their respective parts. There was a wealth of specialties between the acts, the eccentric Harry Feldman in his dancing, singing, and monologue act, the series of dissolving views, Valentine the trick cyclist, and Gray and Feldman's burlesque tragedy, meeting with the greatest favor. The offering tonight is the farce-comedy, "An Irishman's Troubles," and ladies will be admitted free under the same conditions that prevailed last evening.

GAME ANKLE POPE TAKEN INTERNALLY

With the Result That Mrs. Dulin Had To Be Removed to Jail in a Phaeton.

Mrs. Dulin, aged about fifty, who resides just outside the city limits, visited the city this morning and after securing from Mrs. Taylor who resides in the Myers House block a quantity of alcohol for her sprained ankle, proceeded to apply it internally. The police had to come after her with a buggy and Officer Benke had considerable difficulty in putting her hat on for her and keeping it on during the trip to the bastille. The names she addressed to him when he threw away her hat-pin are not found in any of the best dictionaries.

GREEN BAY NINE IN JANESVILLE

PLAYERS STOPPED OVER ON WAY TO FREEPORT.

POKED FUN AT SPIT-BALL

Player McQuade and Our Own Tom Morrissey Agree That It's Biggest Hoax of the Age.

Last night the Green Bay baseball team stopped over in Janesville, the members this morning resuming the journey to Freeport, where they were to play this afternoon. The players who make up the nine are: Manager Corcoran, Kennally, Wood, Nicolai, Frederickson, Charles, McQuade, Kinse, Silkoski, Struck, Rath, and Lucia. A delegation of six wandering down Milwaukee street encountered Officer Tom Morrissey and there were greetings and inquiries concerning oldtime mutual friends.

McQuade on "Spit Ball" McQuade is an oldtimer but still plays the game. He once became very angry with a Rockford paper for asserting that he was putting the sphere home at the time when the Indian topees were pitched on the banks of the Rock and the council fires smoked lustily of a summer's evening.

"Isn't this spit-ball fun, the greatest fake you ever heard of?" he said to Officer Morrissey after they had drifted back from personal reminiscences to the great national game. "It's the same old slow ball pitched with all the motions of a fast one and the only difference is it's wet." It developed from the conversation of the two that the new fad was conceived to reinforce the new foul-strike rule in giving the impression that the old National league was playing great ball.

How It Was Worked
According to their version, when the new American league was formed most of the good pitchers who had played with the national league teams were taken into camp. The National league showed the effects of this in loose games with big scores. In order to reduce the scores and put a better face on the game the league managers had a rule introduced whereby the first two fouls should be counted as strikes. With this rule in force the scores of the National teams became even closer than those of the American and the latter was forced into adopting it to keep even in the competition. Then the "spit ball" was sprung. Pure myth and superstition was woven about the old changing base delivery and the public was humbugged into believing that there was some marvellous potency in a rainy day, some fearful witchery in artificial dampness conveyed to the cover of the sphere.

Prospects for Season Good
Manager Corcoran says that the Wisconsin league teams have been playing to big crowds in the north and that the clubs seem to be evenly matched. He predicts a successful season for all of them and thinks that the organization will be a permanent institution.

BELOIT'S ONLY HOGAN HAS ENTERED DRAMATIC FIELD

Writes and Acts in a Melodrama Dealing With the Labor Question at Spring Valley, Ill.

Robert D. Hogan, the erstwhile promoter of trades unions and labor newspapers in Beloit, has blossomed out as a playwright and actor, and is appearing in a lurid melodrama of his own conception, The Gazette of Spring Valley, Ill., says that "The Army of Peace," R. D. Hogan's labor melodrama was to be repeated by request. It having scored the greatest success of any amateur production played in that city. It was put on the stage by the Washington club of Spring Valley, under the direction of Leo W. Mars, and Mr. Hogan played the part of John Burroughs, proprietor of the factory. "An idea of the character of the production and its plot may be gathered from this synopsis:

Act 1.—Scene, business office of clothing factory. Rumors of a strike. Morton strikes his first blow. An attack on a working girl's honor.

It is Pleasant to Record That Thoughtful Gentleman Corrected the Error.

This afternoon while a group of men were conversing in the Bower City bank, a well-dressed lady approached the metal waste-box out in front and proceeded to raise the lid and mail a bundle of papers. One of the gentlemen, after she had gone, went out and removed the package from the waste-box and deposited it in the U. S. mail receptacle nearby.

PRESS COMMENT.

The Garden Magazine: Get a toad. He is the best insect killer of them all. A single toad is worth $20 to a gardener. Frogs will come and go in a small pond that may be a part of your flower garden. Some remain a while, become tame and spend the winter to serenade us in springtime. Birds are attracted too. They drink freely, sit on the floating leaves while they bathe and delight us with their singing.

Milwaukee Free Press: Great is Chicago university. It always has a message to the world. This is because it has a lot of thinking professors. One has been lately thinking on the future size of cities, and has come to the conclusion that Chicago is sometime to be the greatest city in the world, with St. Louis second. What is going to make these two cities so large is the deepening of the Mississippi river and the building of many canals.

Madison Journal: Rev. Henry Faville, the preacher who holds La Crosse in the hollow of his hand, is going to Europe for two months with all expenses paid. Such is the gratitude of his church. He has a son, a Beloit boy, who goes to Robert college, Constantinople, to teach. No one can visit La Crosse without noting the peculiar regard in which this good man is held by all the people.

La Crosse Leader-Press: His warm praise of the works of Jacob Reid and Booker Washington has earned thousands of dollars for them. He doubled the sales of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and Robert Grant's "Uncleaved Bread." Other instances of the same kind might also be quoted. The President takes an interest in everything, a quality which keeps him young and makes the country admire him, and he believes it his duty to supervise the reading of the country just as much as he thinks it his duty to scold the senate, to lecture parents and to discipline the South American nations. When he knows a good thing he wants the country to enjoy it with him. He likes books especially because he dashes one off himself occasionally when he can spare the time and when he mentions one it means success. Thus we have added to the many historic and some new powers of the president that of patron of worthy but possibly needy authors.

"BY OUR BOY."
The Underwear men are working overtime these days. You see this was a backward season and men have been wearing their heavy weights, but since the weather got a little warmer they figured it was better to buy light underwear and they've been coming in bunches. I heard the head squealer in that department telling one of his underestimates that we could get along with about twenty less lines of underwear than we had, but that the boss insisted on keeping the most complete stock in town. If I was big enough I would be wearing those mercerized silk ones with sweater necks; they're great. We sell an awful lot of union suits. A whole lot of people are talking to wearing union suits; I know lots of non-union men who wear them, but the only label on them is Munsing and there's never any kind of trouble about that name; it just means "good stuff." "Your money back if you want it." It's exactly the same as the "Sterling" mark on silver. Don't buy anything without that label and you'll win out in every proposition. Try our underwear this spring. Prices, 25-50-75-$1-$1.50 to $4.

MILTON.

Milton, May 8.—We enjoyed the day at Milton Sunday in attendance at the district convention of the Y. P. S. C. E. and incidentally in meeting many friends and acquaintances of our college days. The program of the society was a treat and can not but prove a great benefit to those privileged to attend; and indirectly to the societies which they represented. The several local churches united in the meetings and the good people of the village were keeping up the reputation for generous hospitality Milton people as a rule, take pride in their homes, and the well kept lawns make fine settings for the many fine residences and pretty cottages. The college is unmistakably growing in advantages and importance, under the supervision of President Daland, and the local surroundings are correspondingly improving. There are faces that one can not help but miss at school familiar haunts but the best way to remember them is to live up to the best there is in us and show by our lives our appreciation of their ennobling examples and efforts in our behalf.—Palmyra Enterprise.

A Whitewater Victory.

The Whitewater high school team met the Milton high here Friday afternoon and defeated them by a score of 5 to 1. Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or scum settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing, mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

Sir Godfrey's face grew dark.

"The dastard keeps out of my way, or from the very bitterness I hold in my heart against him I would long since have run him through," he said. "But I will deal with him before I leave, for I have sworn that no man may speak evil of thee and live."

"Godfrey," Margaret's eyes were filled with sudden terror, "promise me that thou wilt not anger him, for any thing of words between ye, so hot is each against the other, that a conflict would ensue that might end in death. Smile," she sweetly her hand with affected gaiety over his frowning countenance—"chase that angry look from off thy face, and now under this bright moon, with the breeze stirring so softly, think only of those art with me and that tonight is ours."

He drew her closer to him, and they paced slowly up and down under the shadows of the trees.

"Margaret, methinks to journey forth to London in three days. Canst be ready to go with me, sweet?"

At the unexpected announcement a deep flush spread over Margaret's countenance, extending to the roots of her hair.

"Ready to go with thee, Godfrey?" she repeated questioning.

"Aye, love, as my wife," he replied in a voice touched with emotion, "as my adored, deeply cherished wife—that is how I will take thee, sweet."

For answer she raised her face to his, and they kissed each other.

"I will go with thee, Godfrey," she said simply.

The moon rose higher in the heavens and seemed to shed a brighter luster on the scene as, pacing slowly up and down, the mistress of the Mayland farm and her lover, talking in low voices, made their plans and arranged for their departure. As there were no servants about the place, Elisabeth taking care of the house and Gaston doing the work among the animals, there was no chance of their intended departure being known. It was La Fabienne's idea to rise before the sun and, with Elisabeth and Margaret, ride down the mountain, leaving the estate in charge of trusty Gaston. By fast riding they could reach London before the dawn of another day and would go at once to the house of La Fabienne's sister, the Lady Grenville, where they would be married and then proceed to Paris.

Margaret, saying, with a little shiver, that she would never care to visit Cragenstone again, Sir Godfrey said that they would offer her estate, including house and animals, to a land dealer he knew in London at such a low figure that he would not refuse to buy it.

"For thy cousin can have naught that doth belong to thee," he announced, with decision.

Their final arrangements being made, their conversation drifted to other matters.

"How truly doth the Scripture speak, dear Godfrey," Margaret said gently, "where it saith that 'one day telleth not what another day bringeth forth.' When thou didst come I did not think to go back with thee. Methought thou wouldst come again for me."

"Margaret, tell me truly, had the conditions been happier, had thy stay here been more pleasant, could thou have left me ride down the mountain without thee?"

"Ah, Godfrey," she replied, with a little fluttering sigh, "I am such a weak woman and so overfond of thee that hadst thou wrung a consent from me to let thee go I woe when I saw thy back turned toward me I would have forgotten my promise and in my loneliness and despair run after thee, throw myself in the roadway at thy horse's heels and path toward the forest, and when he reached it he had to grapple his way to keep from stumbling, for the moon went under a cloud, and a dark shadow fell athwart the mountain.

CHAPTER XXI.

AT the Sign of the Red Heart La Fabienne found a scene of unusual excitement and commotion—soldiers just arrived and nothing about jesting among themselves or calling roughly for bed and supper; the busy household cursing and giving angry, excited orders to a smirking housemaid, and horse boys, agape with admiration of the scarlet coats, glittering cuirassiers and helmets of the newcomers—for soldiers were an unusual sight in Cragenstone—were hurriedly filling hay in the corners of the large, low roofed kitchen for the men to sleep upon. Catching a glimpse of Sir Godfrey making his way through the throng to the foot of the narrow staircase, his host ran after him and, touching him on the shoulder, whispered anxiously, "My lord."

La Fabienne paused.

"I have been forced to put the young officer in charge of these men into thy room for the night," the innkeeper said. "He will not annoy thee, sir. We have spread a rough pallet in the furthest corner, as thy man Gaston hath consented to lie in the stable for the night."

The excited man rubbed his hands together prophylactically.

"Thou'rt ever generous, my lord, and ready with thy gold than most, so I would not offend thee, although there are some as say thy presence in my house doth bode me evil," he ventured to add.

Suppressing the inclination toward anger that he felt, La Fabienne said hastily:

"Say no more, good host. The man may lie in the corner for aught I care, and the worst I wish him is that he may rest easy on his pallet," he concluded indifferently as he walked away. "When thou canst get thy breath, send me a tankard of ale. I will drink in my room tonight."

The landlord, whose mind was greatly relieved, after profuse bows withdrew hastily, and Sir Godfrey, alone on the dark, crooked stairway, where there was no need of hiding the deep feeling that stirred him by forcing a calm exterior, paused, thinking deeply, great anxiety showing itself on his countenance.

"'Tis well, good landlord, that thou didst give me the proper man, who happeneth a taste for home brew that taken in quantities enough may loosen his tongue," he said under his breath.

"If my suspicions are correct, that these men have been sent here to get evidence against Margaret upon Josiah Taunton's representations and then to take her into custody, by my faith, tomorrow at sunrise is not one hour too early for us to ride away. Fool, fool that I have been to treat the deep laid schemes of that villain with such contempt! Diable! Almost—almost, I say, the net he threw did catch us in its meshes!"

A few steps brought him to his room, and, throwing open the door, he saw by the flickering light of the candle a man of about twenty-five years of age, a dandified looking fellow, with weak blue eyes and light hair, strutting proudly up and down the room in the riding suit that Sir Godfrey had thrown off before his visit to Margaret. The officer, being a man of lower stature than La Fabienne, the long leather boots reached fairly to his hips, and his sword, that he had just adjusted, clinked against them as he walked. At the sudden appearance of their owner he fell back against the wall, with pale face, hanging jaw and a look of great abashment on his countenance.

La Fabienne entered with easy familiarity, giving the discomfited captain, who at once began to tug at his boots in a desperate endeavor to get them off, a word of friendly greeting.

"Pardon, my lord. I long have wanted such a suit," the fellow explained in great confusion, "and I but took the opportunity, without meaning offense, of seeing how the fashion would become me."

The profits of the Japanese government railroads for the fiscal year were $5,750,000, exceeding the estimates by about $1,000,000.

LIVES DEARER THAN OUR VERY OWN

How many lives dearer to us than our very own have been placed in needless jeopardy by failure to provide against and forestall the great suffering which too frequently accompanies and follows the leaving of children? That we would do anything within our power to obviate the possibility of such an happening is too patent to admit of question; therefore—mark well this fact—a liniment, by name, has been devised, whose function it is to prepare in advance the muscles and tissues intimately associated with parturition.

This liniment is for external application. By its use the parts are relaxed and enabled to withstand not only the actual strain brought to bear on them during accouchement, but also to rally from this ordeal and speedily regain their normal proportions and tonicity. It is not irritating to the most sensitive surfaces, and is applicable to all cases. It's not enough to call it Mother's Friend—it's the friend of the whole family. $1.00, all druggists. Rockford Register-Gazette: In view of the large number of dairy cows found afflicted with tuberculosis near Rockford, which were supplying milk routes in that city, to be on the safe side every Rockfordite should know just what sort of a cow the milk comes from which his children are drinking daily. The source of Rockford's milk supply is a matter to which the city health department cannot too often direct its attention.

NO DELIVERY OF FLOUR TO BOYCOTTED STORES

Teamsters Delivering Food Product And Also Those Handling Furniture, Struck Today.

Chicago, May 9.—Peaceful conditions continued to obtain in the teamsters' strike this morning. Employers have made preparations to increase the number of deliveries and expect today to send out eighteen hundred teams manned by non-union drivers. There has been a slight spread of the strike, the furniture companies having taken the stand that they must deliver their contracted goods to the "boycotted" houses. In consequence a number of their drivers quit this morning and more are expected to go out later in the day.

Flour Shortage Imminent

A shortage in the delivery of flour to groceries and bakeries is threatened by the strike of forty-six drivers of the Wenig Teaming Co. today. The men quit because one of their number was discharged for refusing to deliver flour to the Fair and Boston stores. The Wenig Co. handles fifteen thousand barrels of flour weekly. Forty teamsters of the Crane company threatened to strike today on account of the discharge of a fellow teamster.

Chicago, May 9.—The teamsters' strike zone was extended Monday, and a new phase of the sympathetic strike that menaces the whole industrial fabric of the city made its appearance. The strike's spread involved the Heath & Milligan Manufacturing company and firms belonging to the Furniture Manufacturers' association.

In the Heath & Milligan case occurred the first walkout of employees outside of the teamsters that has taken place since the drivers' strike began, indicating the possibility of a general strike of unionists on the ground that they will not handle material hauled by non-union drivers.

Grain Drivers May Strike

A further spread of the strike to include about 1,000 drivers employed by the Hay and Grain Dealers' association was imminent Monday night, and a series of conferences, extending over four hours, was held by representatives of the association and of the union. While no decision was reached, it was announced that a harmonious agreement was probable.

Renewed violence marked the beginning of the fifth week of the struggle between employers and union drivers. Albert Enders, who attacked William O'Day, colored, a union teamster, was shot and killed by the latter, and several other shooting affrays occurred during the day.

Both Sides Prepare

Employers and the teamsters took steps to broaden their respective spheres of activity in the fight. The former arranging to send out hundreds of additional wagons with non-union drivers, while the latter received thousands of dollars in aid of their cause from other union organizations. National Secretary E. L. Turley of the teamsters' brotherhood has arrived in Chicago with an additional $40,000 for the strike fund.

The Illinois Manufacturers' Association

The Illinois Manufacturers' association, with which a number of box manufacturers are connected, has made an appropriation for the employers' association, and has ordered the Consumers' Box company to deliver boxes to strike-bound houses. Teamsters were asked if they would drive the wagons and said they would not. The box manufacturers employ about 100 drivers.

Inquiry Board Is Hampered

Mayor Dunne's strike commission, imbued with the double purpose of getting at the bottom of the causes of disturbance and of bringing about peace, organized for its work, but encountered snags at the outset. Thus far the commission of three has been ignored by the employers, while strike leaders have imposed conditions that will render a change of program necessary in order to obtain any testimony.

The commission, after organizing, issued a statement calling for the cooperation of all good citizens and announcing that the hearing would be in private. President Dold of the federation of labor issued a manifesto that if meetings are not open to the public the labor leaders will not testify.

"We have not received any communication from the investigating committee, and of course no action has been taken," said Levy Mayer, general counsel for the employers' association.

Labor Leaders Accuse Employers

All in all, that peace which is typified by the personification of capital and labor walking arm in arm is far removed from sight. Labor officials declared that the prospect of a big peace talk when President Roosevelt comes to town Wednesday is a delusion. "Coupled with this declaration it was intimated by strike leaders that the employing interests intended to stir up violence through their strike-breakers, so as to impress the chief executive of the nation with the necessity of having troops to deal with the situation."

Officials of the employers' association, on the other hand, expressed themselves as pleased with the continued progress made for order since Sheriff Barrett and his deputies enforced the teamsters' despite the outbreaks of violence here and there.

Allows Police to Ride

New features pertaining to the law and order end of the strike embraced the appearance of policemen on "struck" wagons riding with the drivers and the impressing of covered express wagons into service as police patrols.

Chief O'Neill issued a special order allowing his men to ride, explaining that the extension of deliveries made it impossible for the guards to cover the ground on foot. The extemporized patrol wagons were designated by canvas streamers, and were kept busy during the day. The chief also called for volunteers to complete the 1,000 special policemen recently ordered. About 300 are needed to complete the quota.

Another police order, of special significance in view of President Roosevelt's visit, prohibits all caravans from traversing boulevards.

HEIRS TO CLAIM GREAT ESTATE

Connecticut Kin of Late Captain Samuel Allen Receive Notification.

Bridgeport, Conn., May 9.—Notification of heirship in the alleged vast estate of the late Captain Samuel Allen, a whaling master, has been received from the English court of chancery by David Allen of Stratford and Charles Allen and Mrs. Frank K. Rogers of Bridgeport. David and Charles Allen are factory employees. They say there are a score of other heirs in Connecticut. According to their information money deposited by Capt. Allen in the Bank of England in 1742 now amounts to several million pounds. A headstone in a Bridgeport cemetery reading, "Captain Samuel Allen, lost at sea," is said to mark the grave of the man whose estate has been so long without a claimant in England.

Vaccinate 1,800 Children

DINNER GOWN OF IRISH CROCHET AND CREPE LISSE

Crepe lisse is one of the sheer fabrics of the chiton class, and a recent addition to the list of fashionable favorites. In white and the pale colors it is especially pretty, showing off every little touch of trimming to perfection. In the model white crepe lisse is used, and real Irish crochet is employed for its adornment. The bodice is high, the crochet falling in deep points over a ruffled blouse of the lisse, and the shoulders decorated with a heavy white satin cording, disposed in trefoil design. The sleeve is on the ombre pattern, full and loose at the elbow, where it stops, and covered with little ruffles of lisse, lace-edged, over which the crochet points fall. The skirt is stirred over the hips, and rows of the crochet alternate with little groups of plisse ruffles, each little ruffle edged with Valenciennes. The entire lisse skirt is closely pleated, the ruffles stiffened at the hem with a princess haircloth, so that the very sheer material shall not sag in around the foot.

I Shall Have Lived.
You smile upon your friend to-day.
To-day his life is over;
You hearken to the lover's say,
And happy is the lover.
'Tis late to hearken, late to smile,
But better late than never;
I shall have lived a little while Before I die forever.
